Dear Friends and Fellow Republicans

Ben Cline on NewsMax

As most of you know by now, I'm very much a fan of American history, and thanks to Ben Cline, I got to learn something about the history of our Congress. It seems that the motion to vacate – the mechanism which was used to oust Speaker McCarthy - was originally put in place by Thomas Jefferson himself. Mr. Jefferson could see that giving a Speaker too much power would be harmful to liberty. I did understand that San Fran Nan had changed the rules to make it all but impossible for the party in power to remove a sitting Speaker.

But it was great to know that this rule had originally been put in place by none other than Mr. Jefferson. And leaving it at 5 members is a workable plan. Seems that Mr. McCarthy thought he had a deal in place with Nancy Pelosi to back him in case there was a problem. That's what happens when one tries to put their trust in San Fran Nan – they get burned.

I can't emphasize this enough, for those of you who watch YouTube, please subscribe to Ben Cline's channel. Ben has our back in Washington DC, and he needs to know that we have his here in CD6. Ben's interviews on Newsmax and Fox Business are very informative and you get a sense of what's happening inside Washington DC and just what a great job Ben is doing on our behalf and on behalf of the cause of Liberty.

How Do Americans Feel About McCarthy's Ouster

RedState.com published a poll about the ouster of Speaker McCarthy, and the results are rather interesting. Seems that a plurality believe that the ouster of McCarthy was the right thing to do. The numbers are rather interesting.

Other Thoughts About ChatGPT

Seems that ChatGPT, which could one day be the downfall of our civilization, maintains a blacklist of certain websites – including Breitbart. So basically what this means is that when researching something, Chat GPT will not get information from any source which the AI considers to be “hate speech” or which puts forth “conspiracy theories”. This is an issue, as more and more people will be getting their information from AI sources (Artificial Intelligence), they will not be getting access to a wide range of information. Other banned sites of news include the Epoch Times.
