voted the same.

There are reports that Nikki Haley will drop out of the race later today. It's time. Trump won approximately 768 delegates yesterday, and is now somewhere near 995. Nikki Haley has 89. 1,215 delegates needed to win the nomination.

Now onto November. I will tell each of you now, and I'll say so again until November 5, that no one knows who will win. And thinking that we have this in the bag is a guaranteed way to lose to Joe Biden in 2024. Fact is that our Constitutional Republic is under threat, and as long as the Democrat party is the party of Bernie Sanders and his bunch of radicals, we will have to always be vigilant. The Democrat party is no longer our parent's Democrat party, they are committed to turning us into Cuba or Venezuela. And they think us all being poor and under their control is a good thing.

Your future, our children's future, and their children's future now relies on our ability to get our people out this November. From what I've seen from many of our volunteers, I like our odds.
